Patrick Campaign Again Shatters Records for Fundraising
Campaign Well Positioned for 2022

HOUSTON TX – Texas Lieutenant Governor Dan Patrick will report raising nearly $3 million from over 2,000 contributors on his campaign finance report due today to the Texas Ethics Commission. This brings his campaign war chest total to over $25 million — more than any Lt. Governor in Texas history.

“Having spent much of the fall in Special Session concentrating on the people’s priorities as the Democrats broke quorum and fled the state, we still managed to post record-breaking numbers. I presided over what has been called the most conservative and productive legislative sessions in Texas history. From the grassroots to business owners, we are continuing to grow our support,” Patrick said.

“A campaign war chest of this size is without precedent. The campaign is well-positioned for 2022. Dan Patrick has delivered on the issues that matter to most Texans. We have the resources to conduct a campaign in 2022 that will ensure we keep Texas red and capitalize on the failures of the Democrats both here in Texas and Washington DC,” said Allen Blakemore, senior political strategist to the Lt. Governor.
