Patrick Endorsed by Texas Homeschool Coalition

"A proven advocate for family rights and homeschooling..."

HOUSTON, TX – Lt. Governor Dan Patrick announced today that he has been endorsed by the Texas Homeschool Coalition. In making the endorsement, Tim Lambert, president of the Texas Homeschool Coalition, said:

"Lieutenant Governor Dan Patrick is the bold and principled leader that Texans need leading the Texas Senate and as second in command to the Governor. He is a proven advocate for family rights and homeschooling as he has fought for the freedoms and protections for Texas families over the past four legislative sessions. Texas families know that they can depend on Lieutenant Governor Patrick to lead the way in protecting family rights and expanding educational freedom by passing the legislation that matters the most to families. We proudly endorse him and fully support him in his bid for reelection."

THSC is the largest state advocacy organization for homeschool families in the country. Since 1986, THSC and its members have worked to keep the freedom of Texas families to raise and educate their own children.
